Lake Villa Youth Stabbed Early Sunday

C. B. Dicks, Jr., in Serious Condition at Channel Lake Resort

C. B. Dicks, Jr., a prominent young man of Lake Villa lies between life and death at the Harry Smith resort at Channel Lake as a result of two knife wounds received in a fight that took place west of Channel Lake early Sunday morning.

According to the story told by Clarence Hurlbut of Zion, held by the police for the stabbing, he and Mrs. Adeline Farnell of Zion were in a saloon at Trevor when they were joined by Dicks. The party proceeded to a point west of Channel Lake when they were overtaken by friends of Dicks.

Hurlbut claims the friends of Dicks tried to take him away from Mrs. Farnell and after they succeeded he saw Dicks struggling with his companion and he immediately ran to her assistance and the stabbing resulted from the fight that followed.

Dicks' friends rushed him to Smith's and doctors summoned. Hurlbut was captured at Zion City late Sunday night.

H. Bell, an employee of Alfred Decker & Cohn was seriously injured when he was thrown through the windshield of the car as it plunged into the river.

The party was on its way to Lake Geneva to play golf.

PRETTY CHANNEL LAKE

WEDDING AT ANTIOCH

One of the most beautiful weddings of the season was that of Miss Mabel B. McElroy, daughter of Mrs. T. G. McElroy of Chicago who became the bride of Joseph F. Walsh also of Chicago, at a ceremony in the church of St. Peter's, Antioch on Saturday evening, June 28.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Marie McElroy while the best man was Thos. McElroy, a brother of the bride. Rev. Fr. J. E. Lynch, pastor, performed the ceremony. Dressed in a lovely gown of white georgette trimmed with silver lace, the bride walked to the altar resting on the arm of her brother. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. The maid of honor wore pink tulle and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The ceremony was at 5:30 and was attended by the relatives and close friends of both families. The Lohengrin wedding march was played as the procession marched down the aisle to the altar. Following the church service, the guests motored to the summer home of the bridegroom on Channel Lake, where a reception was held. Young friends gave the couple a gala sendoff.

SALVATION ARMY CAMP OPENS JULY FOURTH

The staff band, which has attained a wide reputation through its radio concerts and tours throughout the countryside under the direction of Adj. Arthur Fynn, will make its last appearance of the season.

The dedication exercises will begin at two o'clock.

A varied sports program, including a baseball game, water races, a three-legged race and other similar events, will be on the program. The public will be invited to participate in these as well as in the celebration of the day.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, June 30, 1904

Races the Fourth of July at the Antioch driving park.

Work on the Mill Creek bridge was commenced this week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cribb on Friday, June 24, a girl.

J. B. Burnett was transacting business in Waukegan Wednesday.

Chas. Harrison of Waukegan was an over Sunday visitor with relatives and friends at this place.

Miss Ruth Williams, who has been attending school at Chicago is now at home for the summer.

Miss Lillie Watson attended the graduating banquet of the Grayslake high school last Thursday evening.

Miss Libbie Webb, who has attended school at Waukegan the past winter, is spending the summer vacation at home.

A new cement sidewalk is to be laid in front of the school house. In a short time Antioch will have cause to be proud of her walks.

The firms of Thayer & Vickers and Webb & Boylan are now located in their new stores and will be pleased to have all their old customers and many new ones call on them at their quarters.

Elmer Gullidge, who has been teaching school in Wisconsin the past year, visited with his parents over Sunday, leaving on Monday for Madison, Wis., where he will attend school during the summer.

At four o'clock Friday morning of last week a fire broke out in the Union Grove opera house which, before it was subdued, destroyed four of the principal buildings of the village, and for a time threatened the entire community. The total loss will reach over $15,000.

Chicago Rowdies Break Local Youth's Nose

A group of brawlers from Chicago visited this section Saturday night and in their drunken carousing caused a great deal of trouble and damage. The party is said to have first visited the Twin Lakes dance hall and it is reported that they caused a riot there.

They were next heard from when they drove up along side Leo Kutzler of Waukegan, with another man and two girls, and forced them to stop at Smarts hill, where the six men in the car attacked Kutzler and his friend. The screams of the girls for help attracted the attention of Milton Crandall and Russell Smith. They drove to the scene, and when Crandall was stepping out of the car, one of the attacking party smashed him in the nose and breaking it. The entire party then turned on Crandall and Smith. During the melee that followed, it is said one of the attackers hit Crandall on the head with a wrench.

The approach of Stanley Thompson put a stop to the fighting and the hoodlums got away, but not before the number of their car was taken. All the parties concerned are under arrest and a hearing was held in Waukegan yesterday and trial was set for October term.

Pretty Wedding Held at Hickory Saturday

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday evening at Hickory corners when Carrie Marie Christensen was united in marriage to Thorwald Mordisen. The bride was attended by Miss Elly Christensen and the groom by Hans Christensen. The Rev. S. E. Pollock officiating. Miss Shirley Hollenbeck played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The groom has a home all prepared for his bride at Waukegan, and after a motor trip to Niagara Falls will be at home to their many friends there. One of the most pleasing wedding gifts was a check for $200 from the groom's employer. Mrs. Mordisen is a graduate of the Antioch High School and has been a teacher in the public schools.

A very nice four course dinner was served after the wedding.

DATE SET FOR TRIAL OF LAKE COUNTY SHERIFF

Despite unwillingness of government and court to grant a fifth continuance in the case of Edwin Ahlstrom, sheriff of Lake County, on a charge of contempt of court in removing Marjorie Moberly and Marjorie Dorland from Lake County jail and taking them to a dance in North Chicago late in February, a federal judge on Monday set the case for trial the third Monday in September.

Army Worms Reported in Lake County

Similar Species Are Brought to C. L. Kutil for Probing

The Agricultural Department of the Antioch Township high school denied reports that he Army worm has invaded this section. Two farmers from different sections brought in different sample to Mr. C. L. Kutil on Monday. After a careful investigation Mr. Kutil is somewhat relieved when he announces that the worm so prevalent in this county is not the army worm but (Pyramis cardui) or thistle worm. Also called Painted Lady worm. It lives on thistles, bardocks, sunflowers, hollyhock, plantain, and artichokes. No damage will result to corn or grains.

The worm has a hairy head; the body is greenish yellow, mottled with black, and the bristly spines are yellowish. It is about an inch and a half long when full grown.

Mr. Kutil's discovery was verified a few hours later by an investigation conducted by the Farm Bureau in conjunction with the College of Agriculture.

Later, however, army worms have been found, etc. etc.

Army worms have just been found on one farm in Lake county, located 1 1/2 miles northwest of Prairie View. They were destroying a field of timothy and one of corn. The thistle worm seems to be abundant all over the county but this is the only place real army worms have been reported. The thistle worm or Painted Lady, is fuzzy, hairy, black worm, while the army worm is an active, smooth brownish black worm, longer and thinner than the thistle worms.

Army worms feed on farm crops, timothy and clover in particular while the Painted Lady feeds only on weeds. Farmers should report at once any worms feeding on crops. The following is the method of controlling the army worm.

The most effective means of controlling an outbreak is by poisoning the worms in the fields where it originated or around the margins of such fields as the worms are leaving. This can best be done by the use of a bait made as follows: 25 lbs. dry bran; 1 lb. white arsenic or 1 lb. Paris green. Mix dry. Add water (about 3 gallons) to make a stiff mash, in which has been stirred 2 quarts of cheap molasses, black strap preferred. The mash should be such consistency that it will just hold together when lightly squeezed in the hand. If possible to obtain it, white arsenic should be used instead of Paris green, as it can be bought for about one fifth the price and is just as effective for baits of this sort. The bait should be sown broadcast over the infested fields at the rate of 8 or 10 pounds to the acre. This is about as thickly as one can scatter this quantity and have it cover the ground. The mixture will be much more effective if put on in this way than if thrown out in lumps or placed in lines or ridges over the fields. The application should be made during the latter part of the afternoon or early in the evening, as the worms do the greater part of their feeding at night, and the bait is much more attractive when fresh. This mash has been used successfully in a number of states and in hundreds of instances in this state, and when properly mixed and correctly applied it has never been known to fail in killing from 60 to 90 per cent of the worms in the fields.

As soon as any one notices that worms are doing damage to grain or corn, notify C. L. Kutil or the Farm Bureau office.

MARMON CAR IS DESTROYED BY FIRE ON TUESDAY

Shortly after noon on Tuesday the fire department was called to Grand avenue, about one mile east of Lake Villa, to extinguish a blaze that destroyed a Marmon car belonging to A. L. Whitmer of Chicago and being driven by W. E. Schuepler. Schuepler stopped and filled the car with gasoline at Wedge's corner and it is thought some was spilled and the car back fired and ignited the gasoline. By the time the fire department arrived the car was a mass of flames and was totally destroyed.

Antioch Defeats Hartford Giants By 5 to 4 Score

Excellent Support by Team Mates Allows Wilton a Win

After five consecutive Sundays of rain, Antioch's baseball team played its first game of the season against the Hartford Giants, colored team, of Chicago, at the local ball diamond before a fairly large crowd on Sunday afternoon.

The long lay-off did not harm the team's ability in the least, for they played one of the best games ever staged at the Antioch park when the "darkies" nine was defeated 5 to 4 after nine interesting innings.

Two of the visitors' runs were made in the first inning before any outs were made and it looked bad for Antioch right off the start. With a runner on second base, Bernie Fields made a nice catch of a line drive to center field and nipped the runner at second for a double out, which put an end to the first inning rally.

Antioch came right back in the last half of the second inning and scored three runs on solid hits by Ed Vos, "Red" Fields, Pacini and Bernie Fields, giving them a one run advantage that was held until the eighth inning when the visitors scored two more runs on three safe swats. Antioch failed to score in their part of the eighth, and the one run lead by the Hartford boys looked as if it would be sufficient to win the match. But the last inning gave the fans hope when "Red" Fields and Pacini each lined singles between shortstop and third with no one out.

Thompson was sent to bat for Bill Morley and hit an easy infield grounder. A double play was attempted at second base and the throw went wild, the ball rolling to right field and Fields scored with the tying run, while Pacini advanced to third. On the throw-in from right field to home, the ball took a bad bound and rolled near the Antioch players' bench and Pacini proceeded home with the run that meant the game.

Antioch made nine hits off Wilton, the colored twirler, while the Hartford boys touched "Bob" Wilton for seven. The support accorded both pitchers was excellent, especially in the outfield. Bernie Fields had three hard chances in center field and captured them all. Thompson, who played center field for the Hartford, accepted two very difficult running catches and gained a loud round of applause. Every fielding chance in the infield was handled perfectly by both sides, the only error being committed in the game was one wild throw by each side.

Two good games have been scheduled for over this week end. On the Fourth of July the Kipper Billards team of Racine, Wis., will be the attraction and on Sunday the First National Bank team of Kenosha will play here. Both of these teams have been playing ball together for years and have exceedingly strong teams. The lineup for Antioch will be practically the same as that of last Sunday.

WATER AT LAKES AT HIGHEST LEVELS IN MANY YEARS

The water at the lakes west of Antioch has risen to the highest levels ever before recorded, according to many of the "old timers" who have lived in the neighborhood many years.

By the latter part of June and the first part of July the water has had plenty of time to flow away, but this year, with all the rain the banks of the lakes have overflowed and have flooded all the sloughs and fields within a quarter of a mile. The Blue Lantern is entirely surrounded by 18 inches of water, and several days last week the fishing at the back porch of the pavilion was reported as being good.

At normal times there is no water within 100 feet of the pavilion and the entire surroundings are used for auto parking space. One machine was left standing at the side of the building and the water is up over the running boards.

WINCH'S PAVILION AGAIN HAS FULL HOUSE SATURDAY

The Channel Lake Pavilion again had a full house despite the rain of last Saturday evening, and preparations are being made to handle the largest crowd of all time at the three day holiday over the Fourth.

CHANNEL LAKE GOLF CLUB HAS ITS OPENING SUNDAY

The Channel Lake Country Club opened its golf course Sunday to a fair crowd. The course was to be in shape for an opening Saturday, but the unseasonable weather has delayed the finishing touches. The members found the course in good shape for play. Nine holes are constructed, four of them being temporary reens, shortening the full yardage temporarily. The greens completed show satisfactory progress and the contour of the entire course and its greens is beautiful.

From the players angle the course features two very pretty artificial lakes, and with the natural rises at some points blind holes are encountered, and with the setting of many trees the course provides many hazards.

The members, after seeing the results of the heavy rains, have decided to dilke the course from further ravages of high waters. This work is to be started this week.

The club members look forward to a very lively season. Plans are already formulated for a series of entertainments, and the club house should be the scene of some merry parties this season.

GOVERNOR REFUSES EXTRADITION FOR PAUL SHEPARD

Refusing to honor the extradition papers issued by Gov. Small, to bring back Paul Shepard of Antioch, the governor of Florida, forced Deputy Sheriff Harry Ahlstrom to start for Waukegan without Shepard.

Shepard was wanted in Waukegan on a warrant sworn out by his wife, charging him with abandonment. He refused to return voluntarily from Miami, where he has been working for four years, claiming that he was willing to support his wife, providing she went to Miami to make her home. He refuses to give up a good job there however, to return to Lake county.

Extradition papers were obtained from Gov. Small, but Shepard obtained his release at Miami, on habeas corpus proceedings and appealed to the Governor of Florida, who heard the case Thursday afternoon and then ruled in favor of Shepard.

A previous effort to bring Shepard back when Elmer Green was the sheriff, also proved futile in like manner.

Readjust Price of Milk for Next 3 Months

Large Amount of Unmarketable Milk in Inner Belt Is Cause

A readjustment of the price agreed on by the dealers and the Milk Producers last April will take effect this month. In place of the $2.70 price to have been paid by the dealers, the price will be reduced to $2.50, and for the months of August and September, in place of $2.75, the Producers have agreed to accept $2.60.

This was brought about by unmarketable milk in the inner belt amounting to 400,000 to 500,000 pounds, according to the Producers, and with this readjustment, the dealers have agreed to take care of all the milk in the inner belt.

The fluid milk market at the present time is in a very bad shape. Unseasonable weather with an unbelievable lack of judgment on the part of some farmers in making surplus milk is the cause of the surplus on the Chicago market at a time when there really should be a shortage.

Another factor brought into this general surplus, and partly the cause of the readjustment is the cheap market for milk in Wisconsin. Milk there is offered freely at 1.60 and 1.70, and can be shipped to the Chicago market cheaper than the prices received in the inner belt.

It has been known for some time that the condensers are out of the milk market due to an overflow of goods that can not be moved at a profit at the present market price, causing the shutting off of this market for milk.

The Milk Board met the buyers a week ago Tuesday at the Hotel La Salle, when the milk situation was gone over and a remedy sought to stabilize the inner belt supply and yet stop the influx from outside sources. The matter was left in the hands of the milk board to take up with the individual producers, and meetings were called in every county. The Lake County producers met at Libertyville Thursday, where the subject was discussed and a vote was taken on the question as to whether they would accept lower price. The vote was a tie. The meeting finally decided to turn the matter over to the Lake County directors on the milk board, Mr. Sibley and Judge Pedan. The outcome of the meetings in other counties is said to have been unanimous for a readjustment in the price.

The milk board met with the buyers again last Friday at the Hotel La Salle and after the milk board offered to take a cut in the price for July of 20 cents it was argued by the buyers that it would be a hardship on them to try adjust the conditions in taking care of all the milk now off the market in the inner belt for a period of one month. The milk board finally agreed to a cut of 20 cents for July and 15 cents for August and September. This makes the prices for the next three months at $2.50, $2.60 and $2.60.

It is stated that this plan is the only course that the producers can accept under the present condition. It was pointed out that the Western Dairy Company had closed their plant and gone outside for their milk, and that the Patten Dairy at Lake Zurich had given notice to their patrons that they would not pay over $2.30 for milk. This plant handles 50,000 pds. of milk.

This condition of the milk market is partly brought about by the farmers themselves inasmuch as many of the producers are making a great deal more milk than ordinarily to get the advantage of the price paid. It is said that seven car loads of cattle were received in Wauconda alone in one week, and that at this point a surplus amounting to 42 percent is being made. This condition is bound to demoralize any market, and the quicker the Producers find a remedy for this hogging, the better.

FIREMEN COMPLETING PLANS FOR CARNIVAL JULY 18

The Antioch Fire department is completed plans for a carnival to be held at Channel Lake pavilion on Friday, July 18. The fire ladders will have complete charge of the mammoth pavilion to stage there booths and entertainments. One of the outstanding features will be the giving away of a Ford automobile.

Zen of The Y.D.

A NOVEL OF THE FOOTHILLS

by Robert Stead

AUTHOR OF "THE COW PUNCHER," "THE HOMESTEADERS," "NEIGHBORS," ETC

COPYRIGHT BY ROBERT STEAD

CHAPTER IX

Linder scratched his tousled brown hair reflectively as he gazed after the retreating form of Transley. His hat was off, and the perspiration stood on his sunburned face—a face which, in point of handsomeness, needed make no apology to Transley.

"Well, by thunder!" said Linder; "by thunder, think of that!"

Linder stood for some time, thinking "of that" as deeply as his somewhat disorganized mental state would permit. For Transley had announced, with his usual directness, that he wanted so many men and teams for a house excavation in the most exclusive part of the city. So far they had been building in the cheaper districts a cheap type of house for those who, having little capital, are the easier deprived of what they have. The shift in operations caused Linder to lift his eyebrows.

Transley laughed boyishly and clapped a palm on his shoulder.

"I may as well make you wise, Linder," he said. "We're going to build a house for Mr. and Mrs. Transley."

"Missus?" Linder echoed, incredulously.

"That's the good word," Transley confirmed. "Never expected it to happen to me, but it did, all of a sudden. You want to look out; maybe it's catching."

Transley was evidently in prime humor. Linder had, indeed, noted this good humor for some time, but had attributed it to the very successful operations in which his employer had been engaged. He pulled himself together enough to offer a somewhat confused congratulation.

"And may I ask who is to be the fortunate young lady?" he ventured. "You may," said Transley, "but if you could see the length of your nose it wouldn't be necessary. Linder, you're the best foreman I ever had, just because you don't ever think of anything else. When you pass on there'll be no heaven for you unless they give you charge of a bunch of men and teams where you can raise a sweat and make money for the boss. If you weren't like that you would have anticipated what I've told you—or perhaps made a play for Zen yourself."

"Zen? You don't mean Y.D.'s daughter?"

"If I don't mean Y.D.'s daughter I don't mean anybody, and you can take that from me. You bet it's Zen. Say, Linder, I didn't think I could go silly over a girl, but I'm plumb locoed. I bought the biggest old sparkler in this town and sent it out with Y.D. If he didn't lose it through the lining of his vest—he handled it like it might have been a box of pills—bad pills, Linder—I've got an architect figuring how much expense he can put on a house—he gets a commission on the cost, you see—and one of these nights I'm going to buy you a dinner that'll keep you fed till Christmas. I never knew before that silliness and happiness go together, but they do. I'm glad I've got a sober old foreman—that's all that keeps the business going."

And after Transley had turned away Linder had scratched his head and said, "By thunder."

After her practically saying, "The water's fine," . . . Well, that's why I'm a foreman, and always will be."

But after a little reflection Linder came to the conclusion that perhaps it was all for the best. He could not have bought Y.D.'s daughter a big sparkler or have built her a fine home—because he was a foreman. It was a round circle. . . . He threw himself into the building of Transley's house with as much fidelity as if it had been his own. He gave his undivided attention to Transley's interests, making dollars for him while earning cents for himself. This attention was more needed than it ever had been, as Transley found it necessary to make weekly trips to the ranch in the foothills to consult with Y.D. upon business matters.

Zen found her interest in Transley growing as his attentions continued. He spent money upon her lavishly, to the point at which she protested, for although Y.D. was rated as a millionaire the family life was one of almost stark simplicity. Transley assured her that he was making money faster than he possibly could spend it, and even if not, money had no nobler mission than to bring her happiness. He explained the blue-prints of the house, and discussed with her details of the appointments. As the building progressed he brought her weekly photographs of it. He urged her to set the date about Christmas; during the winter contracting would be at a standstill, so they would spend three months in California and return in time for the spring business.

Day by day the girl turned the situation over in her mind. Her life had been swept into strange and unexpected channels, and the experience puzzled her. She assured herself that she looked forward to her marriage with Transley with the proper delight of a bride-to-be, and indeed it was a prospect that could well be contemplated with pleasure. . . . Transley had won the complete confidence of her father and when doubts assailed her Zen found in that fact a very considerable comfort. Y.D. was a shrewd man; a man who seldom guessed wrong. Zen did not admit that she was allowing her father to choose a husband for her, but the fact that her father concurred in the choice strengthened her in it. Transley had in him qualities which would win not only wealth, but distinction, and she would share in the laurels. She told herself that it was a delightful outlook; that she was a very happy girl indeed—and wondered why she was not happier!

Particularly she laid it upon herself that she must now, finally, dismiss Dennison Grant from her mind. It was absurd to suppose that she cared more for Grant than she did for Transley. The two men were so different; it was impossible to make comparisons. They occupied quite different spheres in her regard. To be sure, Grant was a very likeable man, but he was not eligible as a husband, and she could not marry two, in any case. Zen entertained no girlish delusions about there being only one man in the world. On the contrary, she was convinced that there were very many men in the world, and, among the better types, there was, perhaps, not so much to choose between them. Grant would undoubtedly be a good husband within his means; so would Transley, and his means were greater. The blue-prints of the new house in town had not been without their effect. It was a different prospect from being a foreman's wife on a ranch. Her father would never hear of it. . . .

So she busied herself with preparations for the great event, and what preparations they were! "Zen," her father had said, "for once the lid is off. Go the limit!" She took him at his word. There were many trips to town, and activities about the old ranch buildings such as they had never known since Jessie Wilson came to finish Y.D.'s up-bringing, nor even then. The good word spread throughout the foothill country and down over the prairies, and many a lazy cloud of dust lay along the November hillsides as the women folk of neighboring ranches came to pay their respects and gratify their curiosity. Zen had treasures to show which sent them home with new standards of extravagance.

Y.D. had not thought he could become so worked up over a simple matter like a wedding. Time had dulled the edge of memory, but even after making allowances he could not recall that his marriage to Jessie Wilson had been such an event in his life as this. It did not at least reflect so much glory upon him personally. He basked in the reflected glow of his daughter's beauty and popularity as happily as the big cat lying on the sunny side of the bunk-house. He found all sorts of excuses for invading where his presence was little wanted while Zen's finery was being displayed for admiration. Y.D. always pretended that such invasions were quite accidental, and affected a fine indifference to all this "women's fuss an' feathers," but his affections deceived at least none of the older visitors.

As the great day approached Y.D.'s wife shot a bomb-shell at him. "What do you propose to wear for Zen's wedding?" she demanded. "What's the matter with the suit I go to town in?" "Y.D.," said his wife, kindly, "there are certain little touches which you overlook. Your town suit is all right for selling steers, although I won't say that it hasn't outlived its prime even for that. To attend Zen's wedding it is—hardly the thing."

"It's been a good suit," he protested. "It is—"

"It has. It is also a venerable suit. But really, Y.D., it will not do for this occasion. You must get yourself a new suit, and a white shirt—"

"What do I want with a white shirt?"

"It has to be," his wife insisted. "You'll have to deck yourself out in a new suit and a white shirt and collar."

Y.D. stamped around the room, and in a moment slipped out. "All fool nonsense," he confided to himself, on his way to the bunk-house. "It's all right for Zen to have good clothes—didn't I tell her to go the limit?—but as for me, 't ain't me that's gettin' married, is it? Standin' up before all them cow punchers in a white shirt! The bitterness of such disgrace cut the old rancher no less keenly than the physical discomfort which he forecast for himself, yet he put his own desires sufficiently to one side to buy a suit of clothes, and a white shirt and collar, when he was next in town.

It must not be supposed that Y.D. admitted to the salesman that he personally was descending to any such garb.

"A suit for a fellow about my size," he explained. "He's visitin' out at the ranch, an' he hefts about the same as me. Put in one of them Hereford shirts an' a collar."

Y.D. tucked the package surreptitiously in his room and awaited the day of Zen's marriage with mingled emotions.

Zen, yielding to Transley's importunities, had at last said that it should be Christmas day. The wedding would be in the house, with the leading ranchers and farmers of the district as invited guests, and the general understanding was to be given out that the countryside as a whole would be welcome. All could not be taken care of in the house, so Y.D. gave orders that the hay was to be cleared out of one of the barns and the floor put in shape for dancing. Open house would be held in the barn and in the bunk-house, where substantial refreshments would be served to all and sundry.

Christmas day dawned with a seasonable nip to the air, but the sun rose warm and bright. As the hour approached Zen found herself possessed of a calmness which she deemed worthy of Y.D.'s daughter. She had elected to be unattended as she had no very special girl friend, and that seemed the simplest way out of the problem of selecting someone for this honor. She was, however, amply assisted with her dressing, and the color of her fine cheeks burned deeper with the compliments to which she listened with modest appreciation.

At a quarter to the hour it was discovered that Y.D. had not yet dressed for the occasion. He was, in fact, engaged with Landson in making a tentative arrangement for the distribution of next year's hay. Zen had been so insistent upon an invitation being sent to Mr. and Mrs. Landson, that Y.D., although fearing a snub for his pains, at last conceded the point. He had done his neighbor rather less than justice, and now he and Landson, with the assistance of a well-filled stone jug, were burying the hatchet in a corner of the bunk-house.

"Dang this dressin'," Y.D. remonstrated when a message demanding instant action reached him. "Landson, hear me now! I wouldn't take a million dollars for that girl, y' understand—and I wouldn't trade a mangy cayuse for another!"

So, grumbling, he found his way to his room and began a wrestle with his "store" clothes. Before the fight was over he was being reminded through the door that he wasn't roping a steer, and everybody was waiting. At the last moment he discovered that he had neglected to buy shoes. There was nothing for it but his long ranch boots, so on they went.

He sought Zen in her room. "Will I do in this?" he asked, feeling very sheepish.

Zen could have laughed, or she could have cried, but she did neither. She sensed in some way the fact that to her father this experience was a positive ordeal. So she just slipped her arm through his and whispered: "Of course you'll do, you silly old duffer," and tripped down the stairs by the side of his ponderous steps.

After the ceremony the elder people sat down to dinner in the house, and the others in the bunk-house. Zen was radiant and calm; Transley handsome, delighted, self-possessed. His good luck was the subject of many a comment, both inside and out of the old house. He accepted it at its full value, and yet as one who has a right to expect that luck will play him some favors.

Suddenly there was a rush from outside, and Zen found herself being carried bodily away. The young people had decided that the dancing could wait no longer, so a half dozen hustlers had been deputed to kidnap the bride and carry her to the barn, where the fiddles were already strumming. Zen insisted that the first dance must belong to Transley, but after that she danced with the young ranchers and cowboys with strict impartiality. And even as she danced she found herself wondering if, among all this representation of the countryside, that one upon whom her thoughts had turned so much should be missing. She found herself watching the door. Surely it would have been only a decent respect to her—surely he might have helped to whirl her joyously away into the new life in which the past had to be forgotten. . . . How much better that they should part that way, than with the memories they had!

But Dennison Grant did not appear. Evidently he preferred to keep his memories. . . .

When at last the night had worn thin and it was time for the bridal couple to leave if they were to catch the morning train in town, and they had ridden down the foothill trails to the thunder of many accompanying hoof-beats, the old ranch became suddenly a place very quiet and still and alone. Y.D. sat down in the corner of the big room by the fire, and saw strange pictures in its dying embers.

Zen. . . . Transley was a good fellow, but how much a man will take with scarce a thank-you! . . . Presently Y.D. became aware of a hand resting upon his shoulder, and tingling from its fingertips came something akin to the almost forgotten rapture of a day long gone. He ruled his great palm and took that slowly aging hand, once round and fresh like Zen's, in his. Together they watched the fire die out in the silence of their empty house. . . .

This award was made to this Company in competition with the electric light and power companies of the United States "for distinguished contribution to the development of electric light and power for the convenience of the public and the benefit of the industry".

These cities and towns served by the Public Service Company have at their command the greatest pool of electricity of any territory in the world. This electricity supply comes not only from the Company's great generating plants, but also from other interconnected super-power systems, including that of the Commonwealth Edison Company whose vast plants provide Chicago with its electricity.

And in keeping with these activities the gas business of the Company is constantly increasing. Last year this Company produced for customer use, 3,535,537,000 cubic feet of gas, an increase of 448,195,000 cubic feet over the preceding year.

News Notes Taken From Other Papers

News from Entire County in Condensed Form

The large group of citizens from Fox Lake visited the county board last week and demanded immediate action concerning the improvement of the Volo-Fox Lake road, the main "feeder" for Cook county tourists, obtained the promise of the board to have it maintained until such time that it can be paved. The matter was referred to the maintenance committee.

At a special meeting of the village board of Grayslake held last Thursday evening, it was decided to immediately employ an engineer to get the grade and make an estimate of the cost of putting in the improvement.

W. H. Under of Libertyville has been employed for this work, and began Wednesday morning. With favorable weather, he expects to complete the work within a week.

During the electric storm a week ago Sunday Fred Biechle, living just south of the city on the Kenosha road had three horses killed by lightning. The horses were under an apple tree in the orchard and lightning struck the tree. The horses were found dead under it, but did not show a mark or burn. The wrecked tree plainly told what had killed them.

Nie Barbian, who resides near Wheatland, Wis., had nine cows killed by lightning during the electric storm a week ago Monday. The cows were in a pasture and had evidently sought shelter under a large tree. Lightning struck the tree, the bolt being of sufficient strength to kill the cows under it. Mr. Barbian found the dead animals when he went to get his herd for milking the next morning.

Lightning killed two valuable mules belonging to Matt Adams, of Belvidere Road, the other day, it was learned. The animals were running loose in a pasture on the place, which is known as the Tiernan farm. They were standing near a barbed wire fence, when a bolt of lightning struck a fence post a short distance away.

Racine county is gradually picking its way clear from the chaos and destruction caused by a tornado which swept that county a week ago Friday morning. Wind, lightning, thunder and a deluge of water broke loose at about 7:30 that morning, following a period of almost midnight darkness, and in fifteen minutes had spent its terrific force in doing damage estimated at over a half a million dollars. Telegraph and telephone poles were laid low, highways were blocked, gardens washed away, crops destroyed, windows shattered, trees twisted, uprooted and broken, sheds and buildings demolished, windmills and silos crashed to earth and poultry and livestock in great numbers were killed. The miracle of the storm is that no person was killed and that only six or seven were injured.

It was in the towns of Raymond, Yorkville, Mt. Pleasant and Caledonia, Wis., however, that the real force of the storm was felt, and for miles in that section the devastated fields resemble a battle sector after a terrific bombardment.

The dip of the twister seems to have been made at Yorkville, Wis., where houses and barns were leveled, doing an estimated damage of $100,000. In Franksville forty buildings were damaged, the loss being estimated at $350,000.

The Public Service company of Northern Illinois filed a petition with the Illinois Commerce Commission at Springfield asking for a certificate of convenience and necessity to construct an electric transmission line along various highways in the vicinity of Channel Lake, Silver Lake and south of the village of Antioch.

This is part of the extensive plan of expansion that is being followed by the company. The new extensions that are being put in throughout Lake county are being fed by current manufactured by the company's new generating station in Waukegan.

As one travels about the county he sees the high steel towers which are being erected to carry the high tension lines on the private right of way that has been acquired.

The extensions that are in progress will carry service to many new points in the county as well as surrounding territory and at the same time will give better service in the places already served.

County Officer H. F. Wallenwein made an arrest last Wednesday afternoon, for which he deserves a great deal of credit. A Cadillac touring car, driven by a young woman giving her name as Hattie Mae Oetly, was said to be going between 35 and 40 miles per hour through Wauconda. Officer Wallenwein immediately gave chase, but the Cadillac had the advantage of a flying start and several sharp curves to negotiate, and succeeded in outdistancing him for several miles. However, when they hit the straight stretch south of Volo, Officer Wallenwein was able to overtake the Cadillac, which was said to be going 72 miles an hour when overtaken. The officer said that it was necessary for him to drive 94 miles an hour to overtake the Cadillac.

Miss Oetly was brought back to Wauconda and appeared before Justice R. C. Kent, who fined her $50 and costs.

Eleven violators of the speed law were arrested in and around Wauconda over the week end.

HAS BOTH LEGS BROKEN

John Geyer, an employee at the ice house at Powers lake had both legs broken and received other bruises when an ice slide on which he was working collapsed and he was crashed to the ground. He was taken to the Memorial hospital in Waukegan, cared for as much as was possible and was taken to the home of relatives in Chicago.

LOCAL LADS PLACE

IN STATE CONTEST

Members of the Antioch High School Judging Team, did well at the State Contest held at Urbana, June 23rd and 24th. Two of the seven boys were fortunate to place in the contest. Richard Kennedy placed 4th in judging wheat and 5th in corn. Robert Runyard placed 5th in judging all grains. Both boys are Freshmen in the agricultural department of the local school. The contest in the wheat class was a hard one. Kennedy was finally awarded the 4th place after being before the judges for the 3rd time and being kept in the contest for nearly seven hours. We admire his determination.

Albert Herman tied for first honors in the dairy cattle judging contest the first day, but failed to place in the final contest the next morning. Other members of the team are Lewis Barthel, Elmer Barthel, Phillip Simpson and Martin Sorensen. All the members from Antioch did well considering that they were placed at the top. Over 400 boys from all parts of Illinois participated.

Antioch hopes to show up better next year in the livestock contests as a course in Animal Husbandry will be given this next year.

ACTION FOR SEPARATION

Mrs. May L. DeThorn, 37 North Victory street, Waukegan, who was badly beaten and assaulted on Tuesday, June 17, by a masked man, filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court charging that her husband, Michael, who is facing grand jury action as the result of the beating, tried to kill her. She names him as the man who assaulted her and nearly killed her.

In her bill, Mrs. DeThorn states that they were married on Jan. 19, 1905, and have three children, Walter 17; Melvin, 8; and Marceline, 3. She asks custody of the children, claiming that her husband is unfit to care for them.

STATES ATTORNEY TO HAVE

QUARTERS ON THIRD FLOOR

States Attorney A. V. Smith and representatives of the board of supervisors got together Wednesday and it has been practically decided that the prosecutor's office will be located on the third floor of the courthouse, instead of the offices that were fitted up for him on the first floor.

State's Attorney Smith explained that the main floor offices had been so arranged that it would have been impossible for persons to discuss confidential matters in his private office because conversations could be overheard in the waiting room. He declared that most of the information that comes to a state's attorneys office is of a confidential nature and does not become public until court actions are filed.

It is estimated that the section on the third floor can be remodelled for about $1,000 so that the states attorney can have one private room. Architect H. P. Beers, Contractor Oscar Sandstrom and W. J. Obee, superintendent of construction went over the proposition with the State's Attorney and believe the changes can be made for that amount. State's Attorney Smith notified the county board at its last meeting that the offices on the main floor were unsatisfactory.
